

Information Technology Class

On Thursday, January 9, 2014 your Supervisor of Elections and staff had the opportunity to travel to Madison for an Information Technology class. This gave us the chance to hear from other elections offices on the availability of new technology and how this might make our job of conducting elections more efficient. A few of the areas covered included: post-election audits, paperless environment, backup systems and the ever growing work of social media. As your Supervisor of Elections, we are always looking for way to connect with you the voter while providing you the most up to date election information.
